

Why not have a Good Friday?

THAT'S LIFE

by JIM ROBBINS

A couple of lads in T-shirts and jeans were hanging about the King William street-North terrace intersection yesterday.

They hung a poster on a lamp post.

A city inspector on a motor cycle screamed to a halt and ordered them to take it down.

They cheerfully complied.

Maurice Richter, 23, and Martin Rosenberg, 20, were trying to make us think. Maurice's T-shirt slogan was "Have a Good Friday." Martin's badge proclaimed "I was blind, now I can see."

"Yes," said Martin, "this has something to do with Easter. We want to tell you about a very good bloke. I'm sure you know him. His name is Jesus."

The two lads are training to be Lutheran ministers. On other city street corners yesterday uni-students were handing out similar leaflets: "Your Father rang, call back, and have a Good Friday."

Nowadays everything swings, even religion.

● Maurice Richter, 22, left, and Martin Rosenberg with some of their Good Friday literature.

ARE YOU SCARED OF DEATH?

Jesus said, "I am the resurrection and the life. Whoever believes in me will live even though he dies."

John 11:25

Your Father rang
Call back and
Have a Good Friday